DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of species 2 in the reply filed on 9 August 2004 is acknowledged. Claims 4 and 5 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 6 recites the limitation "said second mesh size of said second composite mixture". There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-3 and 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schweickhardt, US005115796A. '796, figure 5 and column 4, lines 19-53; column 5, lines 29-40, teaches a blade for a power tool as claimed, but does not expressly teach that the diamond grit in metal binder coating is electroplated to the side surfaces of the blade, or that the arcuate blade segments are formed by electroplating; the size of the blade segments, or the size of the diamond mesh in the second mixture. The examiner takes Official notice that the use of electroplating to coat a surface with a metal coating, regardless of any additives, is old and well known, and that one of ordinary skill would recognize the choice of electroplating to be an obvious choice of design. Regarding the size of the segments, one of ordinary skill would recognize that the size of the cutting segments could vary greatly and not effect the functioning of the blade. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to have made the segments of any size desired, since such a modification would have involved a mere change in the size of a component. A change in size is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955). Regarding the size of the abrasive on the sides of the blade, again, one of ordinary skill would recognize that the size of the abrasive could vary greatly and not effect the functioning of the blade. Further, one of ordinary skill knows that the size of abrasive used in an abrasive tool is greatly dependent on the type of material being abraded, and the desired surface finish. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to have made the segments of any size desired, since such a modification would have involved a mere change in the size of a component. A change in size is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955).
